Grammar

Syntax

Sentence Structure

The basic sentence structure is AGENT - OBJECT - VERB or OBJECT - AGENT - VERB. There are resumptive pronouns for the first argument that is not a pronoun, unless it is the only one in a transitive sentence. Any pronouns come directly before the verb, with the later pronoun corresponding to the former noun.

Compounds

All compounds have the head as the first part, with any particles at the end.

Adpositions

All adpositions are postpositions, coming after the noun.

Morphology

Pronouns

For most animate pronouns there are two forms. The form used depends on whether the referent has agency in the sentence.
